FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 14, 1862.

COLUMBIA TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.—We understand that the corporators of the Columbia Transportation Company, chartered by act of last Legislative Assembly of Washington Territory, have at last organized in good faith, and the probability is that the objects of the charter granted will be successfully carried out during the coming season. It is asserted by parties interested that the company has purchased the right of way over the portage at the Cascades from Mr. I. H. Bush, and that the amount of bonds required by Judge Wyche to be given in order to secure an injunction against the Oregon Steam Navigation Company has been reduced, and that said bonds have been or will soon be given by members of said company. If the above statements are true, we may expect to see another line of opposition steamers on this route; but whether it, or any other line of steamers, will or can ever successfully compete with the O. S. N. Co. is a problem yet to be demonstrated. And as this season is near its close, and nothing of importance done by any of these opposition companies towards getting ready for next year, we are satisfied that before a through line of boats can be got ready, and all the portages improved with substantial, easy and rapid crossings, the Oregon Steam Navigation Company will have swept the cream of next year's trade. This company has had full and almost exclusive sway for the last 18 or 20 months. Their line of transportation is permanently and successfully established throughout the entire distance to the mines. They have already invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in the building and purchase of excellent and fast-going steamers and construction of lines of railroad over the various portages. With the superior advantages they possess, together with an immense capital which they must have accumulated, it is but reasonable to suppose that no other company can hope to successfully compete with them, unless they possess like advantages and until they have established equal facilities for conveyance and transportation to the mines, which, we believe, cannot or will not be done short of ten, twelve, or fifteen months hence.

We do not wish to be understood as opposing any effort towards the establishment of an opposition line,—we are decidely in favor of competition and would be much pleased to see a permanent and powerful line established immediately, but we simply desire to remind those who enter into such an enterprise, that it is folly to undertake to run in opposition to such a powerful company unless they possess a long purse and an iron will. And further, we deem it still greater folly for a few comparatively isolated individuals with only a handful of money, to undertake to build up every little town or landing spot on the Columbia or other streams, into magnificent and populous cities. It is true the history of this coast has presented instances of such things being done, but usually the operating causes extended beyond the mere efforts of one or two men, or the expenditure of one or two thousand dollars. More anon.

THEATRICAL.—Mr. F. W. Bell, manager of the theatrical troupe now performing in Victoria, took passage on the Sierra Nevada for that city. He informed us that it is his intention to return with this troupe about the first of next month. Upon their return they are to be joined by Mr. J. H. Waldron and wife, Mr. Havelock and Miss Mitchell, who, together with those at present constituting this company, will present an array of talent never before witnessed on the stage in Portland.

GREAT TELEGRAPHIC FEAT.—The greatest telegraphic feat of the age was performed yesterday. The atmospheric influences being favorable the operators of the Continental Telegraph were enabled to establish instantaneous communication between New York and San Francisco, geographically distant about three thousand five hundred miles. A dispatch from the agent of the Associated Press was telegraphed from New York fifteen minutes after five o'clock P. M., and was received here at two P. M. Think of the vast expanse of mountain and prairie—of wilderness and peopled country—that divides the metropolis of the Pacific coast from the commercial mart of the Atlantic States, and then of the wonderful invention that enables us to span the distance with the lightning's flash—holding converse with our friends in the East as if the intervening continent had vanished and we stood side by side! The telegraph is becoming so familiar that we fail to properly appreciate the almost miraculous power of this triumph of inventive genius.—Sacramento Union 7th inst.

CAPT. JOHN BROWN.—The Richmond Dispatch asserts that Captain John Brown of the Ohio Twentieth, taken prisoner by the rebels at the battle of Shepherdstown, is a son of "Old John Brown," and calls for his trial for participation in the Harper's Ferry insurrection, if there is any indictment in existence against him.

A NEW miracle is announced from Sicily by one of the church organs. The account says that a party of Piedmontese soldiers, quartered in a convent, having insulted an image of the Virgin Mary, the ceiling of the corridor, in which the image was placed, fell in, burying the sacrilegious offenders in the ruins!

Eastern Elections.

The Sacramento Union of Nov. 7th, in speaking of the late elections in the Atlantic States, clearly presents the true causes which have operated in producing their results, and arrives at conclusions which we think both just and reasonable

The formidable demonstration of the "Democrats" at the October and November elections has excited apprehension which are not justified by the actual results achieved. It is a matter of history that no Administration since that of John Quincy Adams has been able to retain a majority in the House of Representatives throughout its term of office. Even President Jackson, with his strong hold upon the popular heart, failed in this respect. The causes of this periodical revulsion are obvious. The "outs" are always more active and more fatigable than the "ins," the one class being hungry and the other filled and satisfied. In the distribution of Executive patronage, almost every appointment made is a disappointment to half a dozen applicants, who from that moment either suffer their zeal to cool, or indignantly join the ranks of the opposition. Here are two fruitful sources of opposition strength. Again, as it is much easier to point out the mistakes of an Administration than to avoid committing similar errors while in power, the leaders of the opposition have the advantage in securing political capital for use among the people. The more eventful the career of an Administration is, and the more its measures are marked by boldness and novelty, the larger becomes the opposition stock in trade, for human nature everywhere cannot be readily brought to admire those who startle its prejudices and traditions. Now, this Administration, besides disappointing the usual number of office seekers and having to contend with a most hungry and virulent set of "outs," has held the reins of Government during the most eventful and extraordinary period in the history of the republic. Upon it has devolved the burden of conducting a great war for which at the beginning, it was neither prepared by knowledge of war's necessities nor supplied with adequate means. Many and serious blunders have undoubtedly been committed, some of which have had a tendency to alienate the original friends of the Administration, without securing a compensating support from its opponents, while other acts, savoring of waste and corruption in expenditure or an injurious exercise of arbitrary power, have furnished the opposition leaders with a much larger amount of working capital than they usually possess. More recently, the issue of an emancipation proclamation—the boldest assumption of responsibility and the most startling shock to the traditions and prejudices of the masses recorded in the history of the United States—supplied the "Democratic" politicians with a more effective weapon than any they had in their arsenal. If to these considerations, we add the drain of war men to fill the ranks of the Union army, it will be a source of surprise that in so many of the Congressional districts of the free States the Administration has been enabled to hold its own.

The success of the Opposition is by no means commensurate with their pretensions or their hopes. As far as is known but few advocates of a dishonorable truce and a dissolution of the Union have been elected to Congress, and the leader of that miserable faction, Vallandigham of Ohio, has been defeated.—Moreover, the opponents of the emancipation policy, which was made a leading issue at the ballot box—although a foregone conclusion which no electioneering for a Congress that will not assemble until December of next year could avert or modify—have, from present appearances, failed to elect a majority of Representatives. Until further advised, the Administration is entitled to consider the verdict of the people, taken under extraordinary and for the Government, very disadvantageous circumstances, as indicative of approval.—The claim that there has been a decided reaction against the war policy of the Administration is not sustained by the returns of an Opposition majority of Representatives, which is the only evidence of political opinion that has substantial value and conclusive effect.

One element in the calculations of the "Democratic" leaders is likely to fail them. In the present House of Representatives their strength, insignificant as it is, is mainly due to the adhesion of the border States members. The Missouri election, and the repeated declarations of prominent men in other slave States, of a willingness to sustain the Administration, without regard to its course on the emancipation question, go to show what a slender foundation there is for the hope that the same class of "conservatives" will be returned to the next Congress. And the natural effect of a firm persistence in the emancipation policy will be that, as sections of the South are pacified and reorganized, men will be sent to Congress who have less reverence for slavery than Ben. Wood, Billy Mulligan, Isaiah Rynders and other "conservatives" seem to cherish. Colonel Hamilton of Texas, with his intense hatred of the Southern oligarchy, cannot be expected to enter the same fold with the Northern friends of Jeff. Davis and his crew.

We think there is much in the actual and prospective support of the Administration to reassure patriotic men and discourage factious effort. The Fall elections were awaited with apprehension. No previous Administration had been subjected to so severe an ordeal under such unpropitious circumstances. There is reason to believe that it has been sustained, though by a diminished majority, and that if, gaining wisdom by experience, it avoids those blunders of which the people were justified in complaining, it will continue to enjoy sufficient support until it has reached the end of its eventful career.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO SANITARY FUND.—Before acknowledged, $14,237 32.

From Eugene City, (additional), $37 50, as follows: J L Bromley, $10; T Brattain, S H Taylor, Jas Gray, Rev J D Driver, Jno McClung, $5 each; Mary S Hyde, $2 50.

W Garlick, Washington county, $5; Capt Geo Flavel, Astoria, $60; S Richey, Portland, $5; J S Smith, Salem, $20.—Total—$14,364 82.

A. HOLBROOK.

GEN. HALLECK heartily approves the Emancipation proclamation as a military necessity, to deprive the rebels of their chief support. He says the rebellion cannot be whipped without it. As Halleck was always a Democrat, his opinion may have special weight with those very "conservative" chaps who think nothing can possibly be right that lacks Democratic approval.

MRS. DOUGLAS.—Mrs. Douglas, who resides near the Douglas Hospital, at Washington, in the small villa recently occupied by the Illinois statesman, has regularly visited the hospital, until prevented by her recent indisposition. From this she has now entirely recovered.

SUNK.—It is estimated that there is now in the neighborhood of two hundred millions of gold lying idle in the vaults of the New York banks.

WE call the attention of the public to the advertisement of the City Hotel, to be found in another column.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

REPORT OF FIRE AND WATER COMMITTEE. — As announced by us on yesterday, we publish the following report of the Committee on Fire and Water, submitted to the Honorable City Council at its session on Wednesday evening last, relative to the completion of Willamette Engine Company's house, of which frequent notice has heretofore appeared in our reports of the proceedings of the Council. We do not propose at this time to offer any remarks or suggestions relative to this subject, further than to express regret that this vexed question could not have been settled long ago and thus prevented a feeling of sectional jealousy which is plainly visible among the members of the Council, and which may yet lead to more serious consequences. We presume that most of those interested in this matter are acquainted with the general history of the case and the main question now at issue, hence we deem it unnecessary for us to rehearse them. The City Council has got into a snarl over this question, and we hope for the credit of themselves and the city as also for the interest and benefit of the Fire Company interested, that each member will lay aside his party jealousies and personal feelings and order the work completed as far as may be necessary and proper, without further delay, and not spend so much of their sessions in elongated disputes about technicalities and outside issues:

To the Hon. Common Council:

Your Committee on Fire and Water received during the week a copy of a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Board, directing your Committee on Fire and Water, together with the Chief Engineer, to contract with Wagner and others for completing Engine House No. 1, in accordance with the plans, specifications and proposal of said Wagner and others, attached. It is well known to your Body that two members of the Committee conscientiously believe that to make said contract would be in violation of law, and therefore feel it would be a violation of their duty to act according to the directions given. We assure your honorable body, that if such directions conformed to the law, the Committee would have taken great pleasure in having the work done as early as possible, notwithstanding their opinion expressed in their former report, as opposed to the abandonment of the policy established and adhered to for upwards of eight years, and the consequent opening of the door, by setting this precedent, for the squandering of the public funds in lavish expenditures unknown in any department of its kind—a department, too, that with the most economical management already absorbs a greater proportion of the revenue. Your Committee fully appreciate the necessity of making repairs on No. 1 Engine House, and have already submitted their opinions to your body as favorable to the project, and that no obstacle on their part may be in the way, your Committee return herewith the papers referred to, at the earliest possible moment, and if your body are still determined to enforce the provisions of the resolution, your Committee most respectfully assure your body that they have high regard for their honor as well as their oaths, however lightly other men may esteem theirs, and therefore ask that your body relieve the Committee of the required duty, or appoint some other members in their places on the Committee.

Signed T. J. HOLMES,

The Grand Jury is still in session, and a probability of considerable business for the court and lawyers will result from their investigations.

DID NOT SAIL.—The Sierra Nevada did not sail yesterday, on account of a large amount of freight—much more than was expected—having collected upon the wharf for shipment, and which was taken on board. The Sierra Nevada had not sailed up to the time of our going to press last night, in consequence of heavy fog.

THE Julia arrived as usual last night with 75 passengers and ten head of horses. No dust came down as there was no connection beyond the Dalles. No news of importance from above.

GAS LIGHT.—Mr. C. H. Myers, Plummer and gas-fitter, Front street, presented us with a new patented gas-light burner, of late invention, which operates splendidly, producing a much larger and brighter light without consuming any more gas than the common burner. This late invention is called the "Paragon burner," and is much superior to the old fashioned burners. An evidence of the superior light produced by these burners can be seen immediately in front of Myer's establishment on Front street, attached to the street lamp. We would suggest that these burners be immediately adopted by our City Council for the use of all the street lamps, especially as several of them at present send forth a pale and glimmering light, doing but little good and easily blown out. It would be well, also, to set better and stronger posts on several corners, as a slight collision with a dray or wagon would displace the lamp altogether.

FIELD'S STEAMED OYSTERS!

MR. A. FIELD, whose Oysters have long enjoyed the highest reputation in this market, has recently invented an entirely new process of packing oysters in cans, which has every advantage over the one hitherto employed. It so preserves the natural flavor, freshness and shape of the Oyster that they may be either Stewed, Fried, Scolloped or Fancy Roasted, in fact cooked in any manner as palatable as those just taken from the shell. They will not be broken into pieces by land travel, however lengthy, and will retain their sweetness, after the can is cut, longer than secured by any other method.

Shipments arrived and for sale by all the Grocery Jobbers in San Francisco.

SEWING MACHINES

ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a seam alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to sew cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and [illegible] fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads and with uniformity, and should have a [illegible] needle, curved or straight, liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather; and should be always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed, no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side a ravel.

DR. BAKER'S

PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums, and vegetable oils and herbs. It is perfectly safe for the most delicate to use. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases: If they are not satisfied with its healing properties, the money will be cheerfully returned by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected, and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally, morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea, to the affected parts, and gargle the mouth or throat three or four times a day.

If you have the Diarrhœa, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea, and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely, and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

If you have a severe tooth-ache, apply the Pain Panacea on a piece of cotton and bathe the gum at the same time; it will stop the pain instantly.

If you have a pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, bathe the parts affected morning and night; at the same time take a dose of the Panacea internally.

If a Mother has a caked breast, apply the Panacea as hot as it can be borne.

If you feel chilly or cold, as though you were going to have a fever, take a dose of Panacea.

If you have a wound, cut, or galls upon your horse, apply the Pain Panacea; it will take out all the inflammation and heal the sore in a short time.

DIARIES FOR 1863 [illegible] at CHARLES BARRETT'S.
Oct. 18, 1862.

"The President and his Generals."

PORTLAND, Nov. 7, 1862.

[illegible]

You have doubtless noticed the editorial of the Oregon Statesman of the 3d inst., under the caption of "The President and his Generals."

It is no uncommon thing for the editor of the Statesman to utter a dozen, or twenty false statements, or draw as many false conclusions from apparently sound premises, in a single editorial. By this I mean that the statements are false and the conclusions incorrect and false, in my opinion: for I admit that these things are, to some extent, matters of opinion, though not always so, but are frequently susceptible of demonstrative proof. The editorial under consideration is one of that kind,—where the facts stated, if facts they are, are susceptible of proof; and if false statements, that fact may also be proven.

But I shall not attempt in this short communication to disprove all the falsehoods in that editorial,—for it is understood to be easier and shorter work to state ten falsehoods than to prove one well established fact.

Let us notice some of those falsehoods: 1st. Mr. Lincoln was elected by a party, "a large portion of which acted upon the extremest political views, and he was expected (by that party I suppose) to become, and be, the President of that party, instead of being the President of the United States." That is a big falsehood. Not a large portion and only a very small portion of the Republican party held "extreme views." And no portion of the party ever expected or desired him to become the President of any party, but of the whole country.

Now, is not my statement there, as good as that of the Statesman to the contrary? The "extreme views", of the party were laid down in the Chicago Platform—put in there at the instance of J. R. Giddings, whom the Statesman classes with the Greeleys, Garrisons, Phillipses, Sumner, &c., &c., and these extreme views, as the principles of the "Chicago Platform," have every one of them been enacted into Laws of the Land; and I do not understand the editor of the Statesman now to demur to any of those laws. Does he? Let us see: Does he object to the law prohibiting slavery in any and every future Territory, whether a few lazy drone nabobs want it or not?

Does he demur to the Homestead Bill, giving 160 acres of land to every homeless, landless family for the sum of ten dollars?

Does he object to the law authorizing the construction of the Pacific Railroad? Let him speak out if he does, and define his position for once. Those three measures, as everybody knows, were all the radical, extreme measures of the Chicago Platform, and yet the editor of the Statesman does, if he is a Union man,—at any rate most of his former political associates do, endorse every one of those "extremest" measures. In fact the only measure or principle of the party that elected Mr. Lincoln, which he does not endorse, is that which puts men not wholly his political friends into many of the most important offices.

2d. The President, if left alone, would be quite a decent sort of a man, but is very weak minded, and is constantly yielding to the radicals. Most of the disasters (and they are many) which have overtaken our army are traceable to the adoption of the "policies of the radicals."

Contra to this, Mr. Chandler in an authoritative speech in the United States Senate last summer, and which nobody has as yet attempted to refute in its statements, says that seven of the eight Generals under McClellan, who were usually consulted about all important movements, were appointed by Mr. Lincoln on the recommendation of Gen. McClellan. And everybody knows that all the difference between the "radicals" and the Crittenden conservatives, from the commencement, has been about the treatment that should be shown to the runaway and stray negroes and slaves—the radicals always contending that they should be invited to run away from the camps, the fortifications, and even the plantations of their rebel masters, as fast as they come into our lines, and that we should use them in all the laborious and menial positions in our army and navy; while the border State influence, until quite recently, has persuaded the military commanders and the President to permit them to send them back to their rebel masters to be flogged and beaten and sometimes actually killed, in almost every instance of a slave running away to our lines. So notorious is this fact, that although the radicals have given the Administration a hearty and undivided unconditional support in all measures, whether the plan or movement was approved of by them or not, yet, it is only since the proclamation of the President freeing all the slaves in rebeldom after January 1st, 1863, that the radicals acknowledge that at length the right plan has been hit upon for effectually quelling the rebellion.

Here is what Greeley says (and he is the head and front of all the radicals as well as of the best thinkers in the nation, though he holds no "extreme views" on this subject) in speaking of the said proclamation: "Such in brief are the provisions of the proclamation which we give below. It is the beginning of the end of the rebellion; the beginning of the new life of the nation. God bless Abraham Lincoln."

The editor of the Statesman said a few days since that this proclamation is of no account—will do no good—is a mere bagatelle. Yet young Boon in his letter from Bolivar, Tenn., dated Sept. 29, as printed in the Statesman of Nov. 3d, says: "Father Abraham's last proclamation is thought here to be the very thing to quell the rebellion—any how, it don't do any harm."

General Hooker says it should have been issued before it was. (And let me here remark that General Hooker, while in Oregon, just before the Presidential election, though nominally a Douglas democrat, did not hesitate to say in crowds of his political associates that Greeley and the Tribune were the ablest and most thorough exponents of truth and the true policy of our nation, that could be found in our wide domain, and he could only give his associations as an excuse for being a Douglas democrat.)

Then I say the Radicals have not controlled—have not frustrated plans—have not interfered with McClellan's plans but just once, and that was to send the army through Centerville to Manassas, against the advice of McClellan and seven of his Generals, appointed on his recommendation. He and his Generals said we were not able to take Manassas in that way. Secretary Stanton and one General said the army should go through Centerville and Manassas. It did, and what did it find? Charred logs mounted for cannon, and extensive, deserted winter quarters. And here was where the Administration, or President, erred in allowing the course of the army to be deflected from the direct line to Richmond, round to the James river and the peninsula. But this whole plan was McClellan's and everybody was extolling him to the skies while he was taking Yorktown, and settling down in the swamps before Richmond—I say everybody, no not everybody, but most of the noisy folks. The radicals shrugged their shoulders and looked rather solemn, but took hold with alacrity. By and by, however, after the battles—the seven days battles—commenced, and we met with defeats, there begins to be complaints of McClellan not being sufficiently reinforced. Then it was that Mr. Chandler, in the Senate, authoritatively showed that McClellan had received all the support in men and means, that were in the hands of the President to give. The fact was McClellan's army was terribly reduced by sickness and death, (from using soldiers where fugitive slaves should have been used,) and he wanted more men than he had calculated upon. After Chandler's speech, you recollect the howls about the radicals interfering, blamed him for exposing the mis-judgment of McClellan and other officers.

So much, Mr. Editor, for the first division of that editorial in the Statesman. I will take up the rest of it in future articles, and show the consistency and ability of the ADMINISTRATION.

THE EAGLE AND THE VULTURE.

A FABLE.

Close by a carrion stood
A reeking Vulture, gorged with loathsome food,
There came to perch upon a neighboring tree,
An eagle, wing-weary and gaunt.
Poor sport had found his majesty:
The air was hot, the game was scant;
Each plunging swoop had missed the weary prey
No blood had dyed his talons all that day;
Yet there he perched in sullen gloom,
And, spite of hunger's claims, and spite
Of all the eyrie's clamorous appetite,
He spurned the carrion and its living tomb;
Until, half-envious of the felon's ease:
"Ho! scavenger," he cried, "come hunt with me:
There's life astir in yonder clump of trees;
Half of the quivering game shall be for thee."
The Vulture never stirred,
But muttered, glancing at the royal bird:
"Let eagles hunt, let eagles kill,
Let vultures sleep and sup their fill.
'Twas you brought down the luscious prey
On which I breakfasted to-day;
Hunt, hungry majesty; hunt well and soon,
Or on yourself I'll dine some afternoon."

Read, if you'd know what by this fable's meant,
For "Eagle," Enterprise; for "Vulture," three per cent.

PRESERVING DAHLIA TUBERS.—A correspondent of the Journal of Horticulture and Cottage Gardener, writes as follows: "May I be permitted to offer a simple suggestion relative to the preservation of Dahlia roots during winter? Though carefully dried before storing away in the autumn, I used continually to lose them by the rotting of the crown, till at length one day it occurred to me that the mischief was occasioned through the decay of the long stalk left attached to the tubers; this becoming partially charged with fluid kept the crown constantly wet. My remedy has been not to leave more than four inches of stalk; from this to scrape the whole of the outer covering or bark, and at the base to make a small opening which permits any watery deposit to escape. The result has been that I have preserved the whole of my tubers, while experienced gardeners around me have complained of loss, that every precaution from damp or frost had been taken."

FEEDING OATS TO HORSES.—The same quantity of oats given to a horse produces different effects according to the time they are administered. I have made the experiments on my own horses, and have always observed there is in the dung a quantity of oats not digested when I purposely gave them water after a feed of oats. There is, then, decidedly a great advantage in giving horses water before corn. There is another bad habit, that of giving corn and hay on their return to the stable after hard work. Being very hungry, they devour it eagerly and do not masticate; the consequence is, it is not so well digested and not nearly so nutritious. When a horse returns from work, perspiring and out of breath, he should be allowed to rest for a time, then given a little hay, half an hour afterward water, and then oats. By this plan water may be given without risk of cold, as the oats act as a stimulant.—Journal d'Agriculture.

LAZY BOYS.—A lazy boy makes a lazy man just as sure as a crooked sapling makes a crooked tree. Who ever yet saw a boy grow up in idleness, that did not make a shiftless vagabond when he became a man, unless he had a fortune left him to keep up appearances? The great mass of thieves, paupers and criminals, that fill our penitentiaries and alms-houses, have come to what they are, by being brought up in idleness. Those who constitute the business part of the community—those who make our great and useful men—were taught in their boyhood to be industrious.

LAUGHING.—The man who laughs is a doctor without a diploma. His face does more good in a sick room than a bushel of powders or a gallon of bitter draughts. People are always glad to see him. Their hands instinctively go half way to meet their grasp, while they turn involuntarily from the clammy touch of the dyspeptic, who speaks in the groaning key. He laughs you out of your faults, while you never know what a pleasant world you are living in, until he points out the sunny streaks on its pathway.

Somebody, who writes more truthful than poetically, says—"An angel without money is not thought so much of nowadays as a devil with a bag full of guineas."

Bennett's elevator together with Griffith's warehouse in Buffalo were lately burned. The elevator contained 60,000 bushels of wheat and 40,000 bushels of corn. Loss $100,000; insurance 75,000.

TO TAKE RUST FROM SAD IRONS.—Perhaps every one does not know that beeswax rubbed on when the iron is moderately heated, and the iron smartly rubbed on a woolen cloth, will remove rust entirely.

The yield of herrings on the English coast this year is enormous. On two nights 3,000,000 fish were brought into port, valued at £3,000.

Said a facetious bachelor, of the new style of bonnets: "Their only redeeming feature is, they afford room for a small conservatory on the top of the head."
